B-Psychological (UNCLASSIFIED)

Ellender's visit, Rhee's press conference and reported feud in Korean mission in Japan were reported in full by Korean press.

Ellender's "bloodsucking" statement carried by all papers prior to arrival. They carried denial contained in plane side interview, but played up "socialistic trend in Korea" statement. On departure, he again denied "blood-sucking" statement and retracted statement about socialism. All papers carried retraction.

Editorial comment follows:

Tong'A Ilbo (opposition) said Koreans should "calmly reflect" on the implications in Ellender's remarks.

Kyunghyang Shinmun (opposition) attributed remarks to Ellender's isolationism.

Pyonghwa Shinmun (pro-government) took occasion to point out that aid funds were used by US rather than Korea, since latter could not use them without approval of OEC.

Korean Republic (government-controlled) fairly restrained in treatment of Ellender. OPI release urged people to remember tradition courtesy, but said Ellender's comments obviously Kremlin-inspired.

Opposition papers gave full play to Democratic Party repudiation of Rhee's press conference statement that "If those who have opposed the government hold the reins of the government, the country will be ruled by the communists and all of us will have to die". (See political).
